Dear Mr. Epp,

A couple of years ago the head of Health and Welfare Medical Services, a Dr. Ian Marriot (sp?), told me, on camera, in a cloud of his own cigarette smoke, that there was nothing the matter with the air in Terrasses de la Chaudière.

Is that still the opinion of your medical gurus?

Your sense of responsibility continues to impress me, as thousands of children suffer the psychiatric torture of environmental hypersensitivity and you do virtually nothing.

Thanks,

Chris Brown
